Preface

This Cumulative Index embraces, inclusively, all issues of SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN from May, 1948, (the first under the magazine's present editorial direction) through June, 1978.

References are by year, month and page of issue, in that order; thus, the entry "1954 Aug. p. 77" refers to page 77 of the August, 1954, issue. The Index consists of eight independent parts, each alphabetically arranged, as follows:

Index to Topics offers access to the subject matter covered in 2,964 articles and some 3,500 "Science and the Citizen" items published in 362 issues indexed. This is a rotated key-word index. That is, the topics covered in a given article or item are cited by "key words" (average of seven per article and two per item). The key words are entered together in a cluster, and each key word takes its turn as the first term in the cluster in its entry and reentry down through the alphabet of this Index. Thus:

DNA, double helix, X-ray crystallography, genetic code, structure of DNA
resolved	1954 Oct. p. 54-61 [5]
double helix, DNA, X-ray crystallography, genetic code, structure of DNA
resolved	1954 Oct. p. 54-61 [5]
genetic code, DNA, double helix, X-ray crystallography, structure of DNA
resolved	1954 Oct. p. 54-61 [5]
X-ray crystallography, DNA, double helix, genetic code, structure of DNA
resolved	1954 Oct. p. 54-61 [5]

In most cases, a secondary descriptive phrase, highlighting some aspect of the entry (in the example above: structure of DNA resolved) rides along with the rotating key words. Each entry is designed to serve, therefore, as a "mini-abstract" of the original.

Entries that begin with the same key word are listed in chronological order; articles are listed first, and "Science and the Citizen" items follow.

Articles are referenced by first and last page numbers (thus: 1978 June p. 60-72); "Science and the Citizen" items, by first page number (thus: 1978 June p. 74).

References to about one third of the articles close with a one- to four-digit number in brackets (in the example above: [5]); this is the Offprint number and identifies articles republished as Offprints by W. H. Freeman and Company (660 Market Street, San Francisco, California 94104).

Listing of Tables of Contents in chronological order permits ready identification, by titles and authors, of the articles cited in the foregoing index.

Index to Authors lists all authors of articles.

Index to Titles lists all articles by the first word in the title (exclusive of "The" or "A") and by the other key words in the title. "Underwater Archaeology in the Maya Highlands" thus appears under "Archaeology" and "Maya" as well as "Underwater."

Index to Book Reviews lists longer book reviews. The section is divided into three parts: Authors of books reviewed, Titles of the books and Reviewers.

Index to Mathematical Games lists the puzzles, games and diversions presented in the department since its inception in January, 1957, under editorship of Martin Gardner. It also includes Gardner's article on Flexagons (December, 1956) and the "twelve-ball" problem that cropped up in "The Amateur Scientist" in 1955.

Index to The Amateur Scientist lists the projects, experiments and demonstrations presented in this department from April, 1952, through February, 1976, (under the editorship of A. G. Ingalls until April, 1955, and thereafter under the editorship of C. L. Stong) and from July, 1977, through June, 1978, under the editorship of Jearl Walker.

Index to Proper Names lists the names of all persons mentioned in the articles or "Science and the Citizen" items and of places and institutions featured in a primary role.

The indexing was accomplished with collaboration of Excerpta Medica B. V., of Amsterdam; Infonet B. V., of Amsterdam, conducted the computer processing of the entries and composition of the pages.
